

FTP (File Transfer Protocol) is one of the most useful but also most vital technologies today. It's not one of the oldest standards around, but it's the most simple one. In fact, the protocol only contains a single command to send and request files, so everything else is up to the server and its administrator to define. While this makes it an easy-to-access and straightforward method of file transfer, it also presents one of the biggest security problems. Most users rely on username and password to access a server. If the user has forgotten their login details, finding and resetting them can be quite difficult and time-consuming. However, it's not the easiest task in the world. Not only do websites often change their security requirements, but forgetting a couple of details also happens quite frequently. When this problem occurs, software developers often create a separate application just for password recovery. That's exactly what Global FTP Cracker has been designed to be. Our Solution: With Global FTP Cracker's help, you can always easily track down username and password details for your server, so you no longer need to worry about forgetting them. This is because the software automatically creates dictionary items in TXT files, so you'll no longer have to spend your time manually defining them. Another reason for choosing Global FTP Cracker is that it's simple, easy-to-use, and has a powerful search engine. It automatically helps in retrieving all the objects in.txt files, which is extremely useful because not every user knows that their username has to be found in the text file. For instance, if a user hasn't used this server for many years, they might not even remember their password. That's why we think Global FTP Cracker will become one of your best friends in the future. This tool is easy to use, and other than searching for password objects, it will also generate reports on your behalf and send you an email notification for each and every match. Global FTP Cracker in detail: The software can be downloaded at no cost. After that, you'll need to create a dictionary file. This can be done easily, as is explained in the tutorial. After creating the file, select a server and account. Note that not all servers and accounts support this tool. Before you start using the tool, however,
